- That the 90 per cent of the people of this (4). Community are agriculturists and solely depend upon agricultural products.
- That is view of the fact that the Saisye Rapali community of Bengal is very backward in education the Sanity demends that the said Community should be treated as the minority and backward community amongst the Casto Mindus and be allowed to enjoy special privileges in education and in matter of dovt. services and representation to the Legislature and other public bodies.
- That the Rapeli community being the agriculturist demands that the agriculture of Bengal should be improved for the betterment and upliftment of the esatue of the Empali community.

Under those diroumstances I pray you would be so good as to place our just dem not before the members of the Constituent assembly for their favourable consideration.

I have the honour to be.

The President,

Constituent Assembly of India,

Bir,

I on behalf of the members of the Baieya Repail .
Jubak Semity that represents the community as a whole lay before your kind notice the following facts for the due consideration and favourable decision of the members of the Constituent assembly of India.

- (1). That the Bulsya Kapali Community consisting of two igacs of people of Bengel are very backward educationally and culturally and can not keep page with the other casts Binaus in any aphere whether political, commic and social.
- (3). That before the India act of 1935 was introduced the Saisya Kapali Community of Bengal was regarded as backward community and enjoyed special privileges in political sphere along with other backward communities of Bengal.
- now system of Government in Bengal the Saisya Mapali community has been included in the Caste Hindu entegory but the said community can not stand to compete with the advanced communities of the Caste Hindus in matter of appointment in the Government services or of election to the Legislature or any other public bodies due to the reason of their equationally backwardness.

Dear Sister,

I have your letter of 28th January.

I should have been happy if you had been selected on the Advisory Committee. I have no doubt that you fully deserve a seat and more that than those others who were clamouring for their names. I suggested that someone may retire in your favour but the respond was disappointing. Now the only way left is that the President should nominate you. You would therefore do well and approach him in the matter.

Yours sincerely,

Mrs.B. Veleyudhan, B.A.L.T., M.L.C. Member, Constituent Assembly.

New Dethi, 28th Jan'47.

Dear Sir,

I will be highly obliged if you kindly consider my claim when the remaining seats for the Advisory Condittee would be filled up by nomination. East time all the lady members of the Constituent Assumbly met in Mrs. Hamsa Mehta's room in the Const. House and decided to recommend my name for the advisory condittee when she merself presided over the meeting. I, therefore had no doubt of the inclusion of my name in the Advisory Consittee when the list is formed. But unfortunatory Ars. Webta has not present this time. In the party meeting my and was suggested by several members. I need hardly inform you that I am perhaps one of the few educated women in the community and that even among the Barijan members of the Constituent Assembly I stand a claim on that score.

I therefore, request you to nominate me in the advisory committee.

Yours sincerely,

Ovelayudhan

A JORD BLE CONSTITUTION FOR & FREE MY DEMCCRATIC INDIA. This constitution promotes the chances of a coalition functionin; in the centre: 1. It provides the edequate safeguards to every Indian however weak or backward he may be. Crouping is made compulsory on equal facting. 3. rdvincisi autonomy is maintained. 4. The rights of togline and dikhs have been saferwarded in the 5. union assembly and Punjab assembly respectively. The states rulers have been allowed to remain constitutional Heads and to represent their cause in the upper House, while the states people are given full freedom was in respect of British India people. 1 6. CONSTITUTION. The Head of the Country should be a President elected on wide Frenchise just as the President of U.S.s.

There should be a union assembly of 450 members, each of them representing one million recole and 50 seats should be kept reserved be represent minorities and organisations lost 2. unrepresented otherwise.
The President of the Country will select his ministers from among the elected numbers of the house in consultation with 3. party leaders. The union government shall deal only with Defence, Foreign Affairs and Communications. Nothing is defined in the 'state paper' about the scape and functions of these three subjects. The union government scaling with Defence shall have the power to advise the provincial or state governments to neet the situations in a set a way is union government thinks fit in the grave situations in which the Defence and Integrity of the country and lives and properties of its people are threatened whether on account of internal discurbances or an outside attack.

Every provincial covernment and part of the imics shell depute equal number of representatives to the advisory Consisted. The main function of this Committee will be to secure co-operation of every province and part of the country in adopting country wide food or other necessary programmes, to evert the famines.

Grouping should be made compulsory subject to the following conditions:-

(a) Every province shall some capal number of recresentatives to the Group (seembly, it will ancourage the provinces to join the groups as in this way they would have no fear of others domination.

(b) The itader of the majority party in the Group (seembly shall form his ministry dealing with all the subjects at present entrusted to the centre with the exceptions of Defence, Foreign officies and Communications. affairs and Communications.

The Provincial Covernments should retain Provincial Autonomy (c) and the subjects at present held.

(d) Responsible povernments should be set up in all states. The big states may have their rulers constitutional Heads of the states as King of England, if the people of respective states so desire. The small st tes should be prouped in order to bring them in a size of a province in all respects. The rulers of these states should be pensioned off and may be allowed to form an upper bouse as the House of Lorus in England to represent their cause. The state should be free to join any provisional group or to form their own proups, subject to the rules and provisions laid down in respect of provinces. provinces.

The Muslims and Sikhs should be given the rights of veto on major communal issues in the Union Assembly and Punja Assembly respectively, but the decision of the President of the country in the formers' case and of Tabore High Court in Indoors case thould be
